Dallas Metro Area Ranks 9th Among the Nation's Export Markets Mid-Year Data Emphasizes Positive Impact Exports Have on Metropolitan Economies

WASHINGTON – Today the U.S. Commerce Department announced the new data in a series that precisely measures merchandise export values for metropolitan areas. Through the first half of 2007, the Dallas-Fort Worth-Arlington metropolitan area was the ninth largest export market in the United States, with sales in the global marketplace totaling $10.7 billion. Twenty-eight percent of Dallas' merchandise exports go to NAFTA countries, plainly illustrating the economic value of open markets.

"Exports are powering the U.S. economy," said U.S. Commerce Secretary Carlos M. Gutierrez. "Opening new markets for Dallas' exporters will further bolster the metropolitan area trade and support local jobs. In the first half of 2007, the benefit of existing free trade agreements on Dallas' economy is clear having exported $3.0 billion to Canada and Mexico, and $113 million to Central America and the Dominican Republic."

Across the United States, the top ten metropolitan areas posted total export sales of an impressive $207 billion through the first half of 2007. These exports accounted for 37 percent of total U.S. exports over this period. The top ten markets include New York-Northern New Jersey-Long Island; Houston-Sugar Land-Baytown; Los Angeles-Long Beach-Santa Ana; Seattle-Tacoma-Bellevue; Detroit-Warren-Livonia; Chicago-Naperville-Joliet; San Jose-Sunnyvale-Santa Clara; Miami-Fort Lauderdale-Miami Beach; Dallas-Fort Worth-Arlington; and Boston-Cambridge-Quincy.
